RE: Data privacy and FactCite Lincoln Library Online, through June 30, 2024

This letter confirms that, through June 30, 2024, FactCite Lincoln Library Online from Lincoln Library Press, Inc., will not collect any data that could identify individual researchers accessing FactCite databases. (The company has no plans to collect such data at any time in the future.)

FactCite tracks and reports usage by subscriber (e.g., individual school building, school district, public library, academic institution, or a consortium), but not by individual user.

All individuals accessing FactCite do so through an institutional subscription; FactCite does not issue or maintain credentials for individuals.

Thank you for the opportunity to work with the schools served by the DREAM consortium.

Anyone with questions about FactCite's data privacy may contact me directly.

Sincerely,

Susan Gall
Co-Founder and Vice President
